Our Optical Department still goes along in the even tenor of its way despite all opposition. Every day we fit somebody either with a pair of Eyeglasses for 25c., and once in a while we get as high as $2.00. We can't go higher because that is the best pair of crystals you can buy and why pay more? The reason is that we do .93 not need any special two weeks' 5.90 study of the question because our instrument, the EYEMETER, is so simple that its test is absolute. Doesn't matter if your eyes are myopic, astigmatic or any other attic, that instrument gets there every time.

In the Minneapolis Times of April

Strong and Sensible Words from Minneapolis.

20 is an article that refers to the New York Press as "probably the most insensate and ridiculous partisan sheet in the country," and having been "driven to the verge of frenzy by the abolition of the American protectorate over Hawaii, which was established under the jingo policy of the Harrison administration." The Times quotes a passage from the Press and comments on it as follows:

of this republican sheet will find but little sympathy with conservative and fair-minded people of any party. Even those advocates of the jingo policy who were entirely ready at the beginning of the affair to throw up their hats and hurrah for annexation, without stopping to weigh any of the consequences involved, are now willing to concede that the action of Minister Stevens was hasty and unwise, and that whatever is done in the Hawaiian business should be done decently and in order. The outery about the "lowering of the flag" is mere partisan flapdoodle. If the American flag was where it had no right to be, if it had been hoisted by a Yankee filibuster above the Hawaiian national colors in violation of common justice and international law—the proper thing to do was to "lower" it as promptly as possible. Because Minister Stevens had exceeded his authority and committed a grave blunder, it does should ratify the reckless act and thereby assume the attitude of a usurper and tyrant toward a weak and defenceless power.

5—All that tract of land containing 126 acres at South Kona, Hawaii, conveyed to me by D. W. Kealalaina, by deed r and unwise, and that whatever is and defenceless power.

There was never any excuse for the hoisting of the American colors above the Hawaiian flag, nor for precipitate action of any kind. On the contrary, there has been the best reason for avoiding the riot and un-seemly haste with which it was sought to consummate a transaction which by a large majority of the people of this country was regarded as cloaking ulterior and unworthy designs. If the proposition to an-nex Hawaii can be shown to be in ine with settled national precedents and maxims to be for the bests in-terests of this country politically, as well as commercially, and in the future as well as for the present, and finally, if it is in accordance with future as well as for the present, and finally, if it is in accordance with the principles of justice as viewed from the standpoint of the Hawaiians themselves, it will be time for us to add these islands to our territory, or take them under our protection.

The trouble with the Harrison administration was that it proceeded upon the principle of annexing the islands first and investigating all these points afterward. Mr. Cleveland's policy is to investigate first, and after all the facts and principles at issue have been fairly ascertained to take such steps as the case may seem to warrant. If this country has been subjected to any humiliation in this transaction the responsibility rests with the last administration. The Hawaiians, according to the most trustworthy information, do not desire annexation, and to the most trustworthy information, do not desire annexation, and have not asked for a protectorate. They assert that they have been misrepresented and now appeal to America's sense of justice and honor. In the light that has now been thrown upon the Harrison jingo scheme, the abolition of the protecthrown upon the Harrison jingo scheme, the abolition of the protectorate and the lowering of the United States flag was the only logical and consistent course. If we are to hold any international relations with Hawaii, its people must have a government of their own with which we can treat. As long as our protectorate continued we would simply have been treating with ourselves. It would have been a cust of the United States in America conducting negotiations with its own representatives in Hawaii, in reference to a subject which it had already virtually settled.

The people of the United States want no such mockery as this. It is not at all certain that they want the islands. But if they do, they will get them in a regular, clean and decent way and after it has been thoroughly demonstrated that it is to our interest to have them. This government is not in the protecto-rate business and is not going about settling the quarrels of disaffected peoples and laying violent hands on countries whose internal dissensions seem to invite the attention of filibusters and annexationists. If the jingo policy advocated by the New York Press were the correct one, the United States government would be able to find constant employment among our testy and turbulent neighbors in South and Central America. If the Harrison and New York Press policy toward Hawaii is the correct thing, we ought at once to proceed to establish a protectorate over Honduras, now in the throes of one of its periodical revolutions, preparatory to gobbling up the country later by the process known as annexation.

President Cleveland has justified the country's confidence in his good judgment and high sense of honor by the sensible, just and logical position he has taken on this question. The policy he has adopted is in harmony with our national traditions and character, and with the sentiment of all Americans who have a decent regard for the dignity and honor of the government.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have been using it for about two years -four bottles in all as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home.
